COVID-19

Outdoor events

The programme for this year was based on the one for 2020, which was cancelled in its entirety. All the events listed have been confirmed as viable (discussions are still in progress re. a few others - updates will be posted in the News section on the website).

However, please note that all events in this programme are subject to cancellation at short notice, if Government guidance or other conditions change. Updates will be posted in the News section of the website re. the status of upcoming events. If in doubt, ring the foray leader a few days before the foray.

If you have any symptoms which might indicate COVID-19, then please don't come to an event. If you attend an event, please observe sensible precautions.

Indoor events

We normally run indoor events at the Friends' Meeting House, Woodhouse Lane, Leeds. However, at the moment, it appears that this venue is still not hosting events, so for now, the intention is to run online meetings via Zoom: the links to these will be sent out via email shortly before each meeting.

The agenda for the online events will be the same as for normal indoor events, viz.: reporting and hopefully identification of interesting finds (as far as possible, given that it won't be possible to pass specimens around for examination); and general catch-up and chat.

Craven Section

The Craven Section of MYFG, led by Archie McAdam, normally runs forays once a month in the Craven area of West and North Yorkshire.

At present, there are no plans for resumption of the Craven Section events.

Updates

Please keep checking the News section of the MYFG web site, <http://www.myfg.org.uk> - updates, cancellations and news of additional events will be posted here if necessary.

NOTES

Zoom meetings

For any members who may not have participated in Zoom meetings before, here are a few notes which may be helpful.

Requirements:

- A computer device capable of accessing websites (desktop PC; laptop; iPad; android tablet; etc.). A recent laptop running Windows 10 is probably most likely to give good results.
- An internet connection
- Video camera and microphone. Modern laptops and tablets will usually have webcams and microphones built in. If not, get a USB webcam - these include microphones, and usually, if used with Windows 10, they will work as soon as plugged into a USB socket.
- A pair of headphones. (The computer device may have built-in speakers - these are not usually suitable, as there is too much risk of feedback from the speakers to the microphone.)

The web links to connect to the meetings will be sent via email. Usually, all that will be necessary to connect to a meeting will be to click on the link. The first time Zoom is used on the computer device, it will prompt through the process of downloading the Zoom app; on subsequent occasions, this will just run. It will ask for permission to use the microphone, headphones and video camera, then connect to the meeting.

The meeting on September 2nd will be used as an introduction to Zoom for those members not familiar with it.
